Then read about the public policy that helps 75 million American families sleep a little more soundly.

Nothing beats the quiet comfort of life insurers' products. That's why 2 out of 3 American families count on them to protect their financial future. And why good government policy has long encouraged them to do just that.

Life insurers pay out $1.5 billion every day – providing peace of mind, long-term savings and a guarantee of lifetime income when it's time to retire. Helping families sleep a little better, every night.
