

Director, Financial Reporting Policy

American Council of Life Insurers | Policy & Legal Department

Position Summary

ACLI seeks a financial reporting policy professional to lead work on regulatory accounting, reporting, and solvency issues affecting the life insurance industry. The role develops policy, advises members, advocates before regulators and standard setters, and builds industry consensus.

Key Responsibilities

- Advise ACLI and member companies on Statutory and U.S. GAAP accounting, financial reporting, and solvency matters.
- Develop and advocate ACLI policy positions before the NAIC, FASB, IASB, state regulators, and other standard setters.
- Prepare comment letters, reports, presentations, and advocacy materials.
- Lead committees and projects, monitor emerging issues, and build member consensus.
- Represent ACLI at meetings, conferences, panels, and other external forums.

Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree in accounting, finance, mathematics, or a related field.
- Six to eight years of relevant experience in prudential regulation, accounting, or financial reporting; insurance company or state regulatory experience preferred.
- Strong knowledge of insurance solvency, Statutory and U.S. GAAP accounting, FASB standards, and financial reporting regulations.
- Excellent analytical, writing, communication, and consensus-building skills, with the ability to explain complex issues clearly.

Why Join ACLI

ACLI offers the opportunity to work at the intersection of public policy, financial services, and the life insurance industry, with meaningful engagement among member companies, policymakers, and industry leaders.

Team and Work Environment

Preference for someone who can work our hybrid schedule (in office Tuesday through Thursday and remote Monday and Friday) but also open to fully remote candidates.

Salary Range: $150,000 - $178,000

How to Apply

Interested candidates should email their resume and cover letter to HR@acli.com. Please include in the subject line: ATTN: HR – Financial Reporting Policy.